Insurance, repairers, suppliers all have separate mission agendas and representation but are part of one industry; the same industry techs are committing to daily. I believe that the time has come to showcase collision techs creative abilities as well as their challenges they face in a changing society.

I've decided to create a forum <http://dontek.forumer.com> that's structured around techs and their professional world. The purpose of this forum is to empower techs to build a more unified auto collision industry. A forum created by a tech for techs.

I welcome all participants and browsers interested in the concerns, issues and well fare of the auto collision industry to visit <http://dontek.forumer.com> and have your say good, bad or ugly.

Thanks,
